Freak accident at the Naval Yard

These two pictures were taken shortly after the freak accident in Murray Road yesterday afternoon. That at top shows the lorry as it came to rest, after having knocked down some 20 feet of the wall surrounding the Dockyard. ## Lorry's mad dash down Garden Road

One of the most unusual traffic accidents ever recorded in Hong Kong occurred yesterday afternoon when a heavy lorry dashed down Garden Road out of control, crossed the tram tracks and crashed its way through the Naval Dockyard wall, Murray Road, killing a British sergeant.

The sergeant, who was on a motor cycle, was killed instantly. A Chinese seated by the lorry driver died in hospital last night, while the driver of the vehicle (a HK Electric Co. lorry) is not expected to live.

The name of the sergeant attached to the Signal Corps was withheld by the Army authorities pending notification of next of kin.

NATIONALISTS TRY TO FOIL ASSAULT ON CHUSANS

Communists' invasion fleet under attack

VITAL ENGAGEMENT OPENS

Nationalist war planes and ships, taking advantage of the first clear weather in weeks, yesterday launched a furious bombardment against the Communist invasion fleet assembled South of Shanghai for an attack on the Chusan islands.

Reports from Taiwan received in Hong Kong said an endless procession of bombers and fighters began to take off from Taipeh field and other military airports yesterday morning to attack the Communist fleet in Hangchow Bay.

The reports said a Communist attack on the Chusans, Nationalist air and sea base for the blockade of Shanghai and vital outpost protecting Shanghai, is expected to start within a week. The attack must come in early May before the monsoon season, which starts in the middle of May, observers said. The Chusans are 350 miles North of Taiwan and 90 miles South of Shanghai.

From their bases in the islands the Nationalists kept the Yangtze River outlet from Shanghai tightly blocked. The Communists must crack loose the blockade before they can use Shanghai as a major base for the invasion of Taiwan.

Recent reports said the Communists have assembled large invasion fleets on the inland waters around Shanghai and upriver on the Yangtze in preparation for the Taiwan invasion. One report, completely unconfirmed, indicated that the first stages of the invasion of the Chusan may have started. Official Nationalist sources in Taiwan declined to comment.

Reports on the Hangchow Bay fighting said Nationalist warships cruised close to shore and engaged in duels with Communist shore batteries while planes bombed and strafed junks and other vessels dispersed around the shore.

In South West China, the Communists are reported to be rushing repairs on the 400-mile highway from Canton to the Indo-China border so that more assistance might be given to the Communist guerrillas fighting the French in the Indo-Chinese war.

They were found near the town of Torno, in a mountainous area. Fanatic Moslem bands have operated in that area in the past, but it was not known if they were involved in the murder.

Kennedy, a professor of sociology at Yale who had written several reports and books on Indonesia, had recently been doing research work in the field. He always drove his own jeep.

Doyle had been working on a story on how the Indonesian peasants felt about the current situation in the Islands. He caught a ride with Kennedy and said he expected to interview villagers along the route to Jogjakarta.

He is survived by his wife who is in Hong Kong.

Professor Raymond Kennedy left New Haven, Connecticut in 1949 for a year's study abroad under a Guggenheim scholarship. A college spokesman said that Professor Kennedy was expected to return to his faculty post in September. — Associated Press.

AMERICANS MURDERED IN JAVA

Jakarta, April 28.

The Time and Life correspondent, Robert Doyle, and a Yale University Professor, Raymond Kennedy, were found murdered today on the road between Bandung and Cheribon in West Java, an American military observer reported.

The observer, Colonel Karl Higgen, said they were apparently killed by an unidentified gang.

The two left Jakarta yesterday morning by jeep for Yogyakarta, the capital of the Republic of Indonesia in Central Java.

Colonel Higgen said his report came by telephone from the British United Nations military observer stationed at Bandung. Lieutenant-Colonel F. Day.

The Indonesian Army command had identified positively the body of Doyle but, according to a first report, had difficulty in identifying Kennedy.

They were found near the town of Torno, in a mountainous area. Fanatic Moslem bands have operated in that area in the past, but it was not known if they were involved in the murder.

Chennault fight for deposits

San Francisco, April 23.

General Claire Chennault carried his fight to obtain the bank deposits of a defunct Chinese airline to four other San Francisco Bay area banks yesterday.

Chennault, Civil Air Transport Incorporated, filed suit with the Federal District Court seeking payment of approximately $450,000 in deposits credited to the Central Air Transport Corporation.

The Chennault line said it is the successor to the one-time China Nationalist air service and it is entitled to the money but the banks so far have refused to release the deposits.

Yesterday's action is another in a series of similar suits filed by CAT against San Francisco banks for financial assets of the China National Aviation Corporation, which Chennault claims he also controls.

Banks named in the action are the National Bank of San Mateo, the Wells Fargo and the Union Trust Company of San Francisco, Crocker First National Bank, San Francisco, the Bank of America, San Francisco, and the Bank of America, San Francisco.

Kwangtung Governor on world war fear

General Yeh Chien-ying, Governor of Kwangtung, told a Canton People's Representative Assembly yesterday that the possibility of a third war cannot be ruled out.

He warned the people to be alert to the intrigues of the American imperialists. No one can say there will not be a third world war, he added.

General Yeh said that on the side of the Soviet Union the democratic forces of peace are more powerful than American imperialism.

He said that if American imperialists dare to test the strength of the democratic forces of peace, they will be crushed. He added that America dare not make any unwise moves.

He said that many fear Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek would return to the mainland. They should rest assured that this is an impossibility, he added.

He said that with 8,000,000 troops Chiang had been driven from the mainland to an island; to think that he will ever return is just a dream.

New restrictions on influx of Chinese into HK

All exemptions provided for Chinese subjects (of Chinese race) entering and leaving Hong Kong by land, sea and air by the Immigration Control Regulations were completely withdrawn by the Governor-in-Council yesterday.

Previous to this new order, Chinese subjects entering and leaving Hong Kong by way of the mainland were exempted from the restrictions which applied only in respect to those travelling between Hong Kong, Hainan, Taiwan and Macao.

The new order is aimed at controlling the influx of Chinese subjects from across the New Territories border. The New Territories authorities have already made preparations for restricting travellers from across Monday also be required to register with the Registrar of Aliens.

They shall also not leave the Colony without informing the Registrar of Aliens of their intention of leaving. Those without a permanent address shall report each address at which they stay to the Registrar.

Wire fencing along border

The Public Relations Officer said yesterday that a report to the effect that the authorities have begun erecting a fence along the border is not actually correct.

He added that it is true, however, that such a fence is under consideration as an immigration control measure.

The outcome of the brewing battle is therefore vital to Nationalist China as its leaders well realize.

BANGKOK ROYAL WEDDING

Bangkok, April 28.

King Bhumiphol of Thailand today married his 17-year-old sweetheart at simple Buddhist ceremonies presided over by the 84-year-old Queen Grandmother.

Only the immediate family witnessed the rites in the palace of the widow of King Chulalongkorn. After sanctified water was presented to the elderly Queen and to the 22-year-old King and his lovely bride, the wedding party proceeded to another hall where a court service rend a royal proclamation making Princess Sirikit Kittiyakorn the Queen of Thailand.

The King then conferred on Queen Sirikit the two highest special orders whose insignia contained 750 diamonds.

The young couple drove in a canopy-hued, Disney to the King's palace. Later an audience will be granted by the King and Queen to highest Government officials and chiefs of foreign missions.

Proceeding the wedding, Prince Nakhrat Mongkhon Sirikit's father, asked an audience with the King who graciously granted it as well as permission that Sirikit sign her name on the special wedding register.

The wedding followed of the auspicious hour 10:24 a.m. set by royal astrologers. Small crowds waited outside the gates of the palace and cheered the King and Queen as they drove away. — Associated Press.

Pilots see flying saucer

Chicago, April 28.

A Transworld Airlines pilot tonight reported seeing a "round mass" which "glowed a dull red like hot steel" as it cruised along half a mile from his Chicago-bound plane.

"I used to laugh at all those flying saucer reports but it's no laughing matter now," declared Captain Robert Adickes. "I saw one."

Adickes said that the object, 20 to 50 feet in diameter, overtook his plane bound from Washington to Chicago near South Bend, Indiana.

It cruised along a parallel course for eight minutes, Adickes said. The plane was at 2,000 feet.

Adickes said that the object, in an attempt to get closer,

"It picked up speed—500 to 400 miles an hour—and ran out of sight right over South Bend," the pilot related.

First Officer Robert Manning confirmed. Adickes' account, Adickes said, about half of the 10 passengers aboard also saw the object.

Chinese subjects who have reached the age of 16 will from the object. — Associated Press.

Inauguration of Jaycee in HK

The Junior Chamber of Commerce of Hong Kong will be formally inaugurated at a dinner party at the Peninsula Hotel on May 6. Mr. Henry Howell, Vice-President, told the Press yesterday.

Mr. Howell said since the movement was started in Hong Kong, there has been general enthusiasm among interested young men, and the promise of support has been most assuring.

A drive for new members will start after the inauguration. At present the organisation is composed of the sponsor members only.

Mr. Howell explained that the Jaycee organisation is not political, though members all over the world seem to find general agreement on the broadest political principles. No Jaycee organisation takes part in international politics.

The Jaycee creed, which embodies the ideals of the organisation, was explained by Mr. Howell as follows:

Transcendence of brotherhood of man over sovereignty of nations;

Economic justice can best be won by free men through free enterprise.

Lorry's mad dash down Garden Road

In the confusion that followed, the injured from the truck were seen lying where they had fallen off at the large gap in the wall, while others, unburnt, jumped off and ran off for aid.

According to an eye-witness, the force of the blow dislodged a large round stone decoration further along the wall, which flew across the road onto the Hong Kong Cricket Club ground.

Area cordoned

The truck, after breaking through the wall, smashed into quarters adjacent to the wall, causing some damage.

On the arrival of the police, the area was cordoned off with a small group in Tulsa, Oklahoma, in the United States, in 1915. It laid the basis of a movement that soon spread through the States and Canada; and later to some of the Latin American countries.

Ambulances from the Naval Dockyard, the Military, and the Fire Brigade arrived and the injured were taken to the Queen Mary Hospital.

The sergeant's remains were taken to the British Military Hospital, Bowen Road.

Trade returned to normal about a half-hour later, after the wreck had been removed.

A barricade was later put up in the gap in the wall, at which were posted Royal Naval Yard policemen.

Mr. Howell expressed regret that in England opinion regarding the Jaycee organisation is somewhat different. At the last world conference in Manila, this gap was left, and it is hoped that by the time the next world conference comes round, there will be a change.

The next world conference will be held at Montreal, Canada, in May 1951.

Mr. Howell expressed appreciation of the overwhelming reception and hospitality accorded the three observers from Hong Kong at the recent Manila conference.

The greatest publicity was given to the proceedings by the Press, and there was also a daily broadcast of the proceedings.

Mr. Howell said among the subjects which were discussed at Manila were the freezing of trade restrictions, the easing of international travel, and devising means of dealing with juvenile delinquency.

Others present at the conference yesterday were Mr. Edward Tan, President of the Hong Kong Jaycees; Mr. Arnold Hall, Secretary, Mr. Bernard Crot, Mr. Michael Arends and Mr. Austin Constance, adviser to the organisation.

Mrs. M. McLaren has donated $20 to Kowloon Union Church Organ Fund in memory of Jimmie Gellatly who died recently on home leave.

The Jaycee organisation is of two types, said Mr. Howell. There is the purely commercial type, and there is also the civic type. These are defined by the different countries themselves. In Australia and Europe, the commercial type prevails, while in Asia and the Philippines, the type is mostly civic.

In Hong Kong, the civic type will take precedence, though the commercial side will also be incorporated. An organisation of civically-minded young men can be of service to any community.

From the purely commercial angle, the meeting of young men from all over the world, such as the recent meeting in Manila, sets an example of furthering international understanding and establishing invaluable business contacts. The international aspect of such meetings alone is in itself a major appeal to young men.

The Jaycee organisation, with its world ramifications, provides facilities for travel to members.

A cable to Jaycee in the country replies: "I wish to visit will ensure that he will be looked after, and taken care of, whilst residents."

The despatches further state that the Reds are busily recruiting boatmen along the coast South of Shanghai to help man the invasion armada they are supposed to be assembling in Hangchow Bay.

Many boatmen, these reports state, have fled inland to join the Nationalist guerrilla forces rather than serve the Reds.

Army quarters in Taiboh discount the theory that the Reds might bypass Chusan Island and attack Taiwan first.

This idea, they say, must have been deliberately spread by the Reds in an effort to relax the vigilance of Nationalist forces on Chusan.

Movement spreads

Today the movement has spread to Switzerland, Belgium, Greece, the Netherlands, Australia, New Zealand, India and the Philippines, Hong Kong and Singapore, though in the last two places the organisation has not yet been inaugurated.

Mr. Howell expressed regret that in England opinion regarding the Jaycee organisation is somewhat different. At the last world conference in Manila, this gap was left, and it is hoped that by the time the next world conference comes round, there will be a change.

General Chiang Kai-shek yesterday suggested that the Communists will attempt to make a large-scale invasion of Taiwan from North China ports, such as Tsinling.

He believes that the Communists are not able to mount a sufficient force on the nearer Chekiang and Fukien coasts because of the intense Nationalist patrols.

The Generalissimo said that the Communists are mobilising the entire resources of the mainland for their assault on Taiwan and the odds, in numerical strength, are against the Nationalists.

But the Generalissimo is convinced that the Nationalists will hold the Chusan and Kingmen islands, and that the Communists will fail in any attempt to invade Taiwan.

A Nationalist spokesman said that General Huai Yuen, Nationalist Commander-in-Chief in Hainan, is still in Yulin, at the Southern tip of the island.

The spokesman said that the high command in Taipei had remained in close touch with General Huai since the Nationalists withdrew from Hainan.

The Communist invasion of Hainan Island freed the 696-ton Portuguese vessel, the ss San Manuel, from her 99-day imprisonment by the Nationalists in Hoihow Harbour.

Under cover of the Communist shelling from the Liuchow Peninsula, the San Manuel, with release papers handed to the skipper, weighed anchor and made a dash as swarms of KMT barges loaded with soldiers in retreat, attempted to stop and commander the freighter.

The San Manuel sailed through Hainan Strait on April 22, reaching Macao two days later where she discharged her long delayed cargo of 500 tons of cement. The Portuguese vessel arrived in Hong Kong on Thursday for a future journey to Keelung.

The skipper and crew, interviewed by the "China Mail" described their detention in Hoihow as being without incident save for the boarding of the freighter on January 13 by an armed party of the KMT Navy. In Hoihow they were allowed freedom of movement from ship to shore, and money and provisions were easily obtained, the skipper said.

The date of the detention of the San Manuel was attributed by the skipper as reprisal for the Portuguese detention of several Nationalist gunboats in Macao.

The skipper said that he was on his way from Haiphong to Hong Kong on January 13 with a cargo of cement when arriving at a port in Hainan Strait, he decided to drop anchor as it was unsafe to negotiate the difficult passage in the dwindling light.

The San Manuel was at this time eight miles from Kumi Point and 11 miles from Lingkow in Hainan. At 11 p.m. on the same day, a Nationalist warship, the Tai-cheng, approached and an armed party boarded the Portuguese freighter.

The skipper said that he was on his way from Haiphong to Hong Kong on January 13 with a cargo of cement when arriving at a port in Hainan Strait, he decided to drop anchor as it was unsafe to negotiate the difficult passage in the dwindling light.

Macao Electric's new share issue

An increase of $2,000,000 in paid-up capital by the issue of new shares, to pay for installation of new generating plant and equipment costing more than $4,000,000, was approved at an extraordinary meeting of the Macao Electric Lighting Company Limited yesterday. The meeting was held in the board room of Lowe, Brigham and Matthews, Mercantile Bank Building, immediately after the annual general meeting of the Company, at which the Chairman, Mr. F. J. Gellion, who is also Managing Director, said the Company had had a very successful year despite increasing costs of operation.

Mr. Gellion said: "Mr. Watson having read the Notice convening the Meeting, the Chairman then said:

"The balance from Working Accounts for the year under review amounts to $581,150 which shows an increase of $10,000 over the previous year, after charging the usual expenses and providing for annual depreciation and amortisation, the net profit carried to Appropriation Account amounts to $732,320 which is an improvement of $93,400 compared with the year ended November, 1949.

I think you will agree that these figures are satisfactory, particularly when it is appreciated that in present times all our operating costs are increasing."

In writing off the Losses on discharges of Guarantees for repayment of bank loan to Macao Waterworks Co., Ltd. $343,110-60; in writing off the Investment in Shares of The Macao Waterworks Co., Ltd. $100,000-00; in providing for payment to the Government schools in the Eastern District on Thursday.

CONCENTRATE ON PLAY

IT IS A very bad idea to keep thinking about a bidding mistake while you are engaged in the play of a hand. Recall the bidding, to whatever extent it may be a guide, for reading the hidden hands, but don't waste part of your limited—and we mean that "limited" as to anybody in the world—mental power in vain regrets. If you do, you are in danger of perpetrating some kind of costly mistake.

South led the heart 3, the Q forcing 3-Spades if West had made any minimum call except a spade raise. He disturbed his concentration on the play just enough to lose the tournament, in which most of the way he had good scores.

South led the heart 3, the Q forcing the A. Reading South for the heart 3 because North had played the Q, East next sent forth the 10, expecting it to be covered, whereupon he would come up with the K and then finesse trumps. But when South played the 4, he momentarily decided it would be fun to let the 10 win, so he played the 5 from dummy. After doing that, he recalled almost instantly that he had wasted his only sure quick entry to the dummy. He could find no way to finesse the trumps, so had to lose a trick in spades plus one each in the minors to barely make his contract.

Here is the tragedy of it—the other 3-Spades declarer made an extra trick by finessing trumps. If East had done likewise, he would have scored a half of a match point on the deal for tying the other chap. Instead, he got a clear bottom, no match points. That may seem unimportant, but this poor chap happened to lose victory in the tournament by a margin of exactly one-half of a match point.

Your Week-end Question
If ordinarily sound opponents reach a contract of 3-No Trumps, how can you estimate the approximate strength of your partner's hand?

Britain today recognised King Abdullah's decree doubling the size of his Jordan Kingdom by annexing a large area of Palestine held by the Arab Legion since the war with Israel.

Simultaneously, Britain gave its final blessing to the young Israel State by raising her recognition from the year-old "de facto" to full "de jure" approval.

But in making these decisions, which were announced in the House of Commons, Britain laid down important conditions.

She reserved her views on the permanent frontiers of Israel and her Arab neighbours until they reach a final peace settlement, and her recognition of Jordan's annexation of Eastern Palestine carried no decision about the future of Jerusalem.

Today's decision bring Jordan's new territory under the protective "wing" that Britain had provided in the Anglo-Jordan Treaty of Alliance in 1948.

But the Minister of State, Mr. Kenneth Younger, said in the House of Commons today that Britain had no intention of setting up military bases in peace-time in the annexed territory.

The annexation of land East of the river Jordan was proclaimed by King Abdullah on Monday in defiance of the six other States of the Arab League. It makes him one of the most powerful personalities in the Middle East.

About Jerusalem, Britain went no further today than to accord "de facto" recognition to Israel and Jordan authority in the areas they controlled.

UK obligations

Until there is a final settlement on the future of that part of the city which the United Nations decided should be internationalised, Britain is unable to recognise Jordan's sovereignty over any part of it, Mr. Younger said.

Here again we left no doubt that Britain's obligations under her Alliance with Jordan extend to the part of Jerusalem she holds—the Old City.

Britain's decisions were communicated to Israel and Jordan shortly before the House of Commons announcement. The six other Arab League Governments were also informed beforehand.

Members of the British Commonwealth had been consulted. The United States, France and Turkey, as members of the United Nations' Palestine Conciliation Commission, were also kept informed. One main and continuing aim of British foreign policy is the stability and prosperity of the Middle East and the establishment of peace between Israel and the Arab nations, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

He hoped that today's decisions would contribute to its achievement.

The Foreign Secretary, Mr. Ernest Bevin, approved in principle the union of Jordan with Arab Palestine in a foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons last May.

Mr. Younger replied: "We hope that the nation we are announcing today will help in reaching an agreement between these countries over the many problems which face them. But I do not think I can commit myself to the idea of the conference as necessarily the best way to settle differences."

Mr. Churchill asked if the Minister and the Government would reconsider the decision to sell 110 jet aeroplanes to the Egyptian Government.

Mr. Younger replied that Mr. Churchill would appreciate that the whole question of the supply of arms to the Middle East was under constant consideration.

He did not think he could, at this moment, add anything to the statement he had just made.

Mr. Churchill suggested that he should bring it to the notice of the Prime Minister. It was a very important one, he said.

He also asked Mr. Younger to consult the Prime Minister on the continuous stopping of tankers passing through the Canal Zone which is hampering Britain's efforts to get the Suez Refinery into operation.

Mr. Younger replied that these and other important matters are being actively considered by the Government.

Positive steps

Mr. Sidney Silverman, a Jewish Labour Member, congratulated the Government on the positive and constructive steps forward it had taken. But he urged that the whole question of supplies of arms under Britain's treaties with the surrounding Arab States should be reconsidered—indeed suspended—until such time as they were prepared to negotiate treaties of peace with Israel.

Mr. Younger: "I take note of that, but I do not think any comment of mine is called for."

Lord Winterston, Conservative, said some Members who had had very intimate connections with the Middle East believed that Israel and Jordan were by far the most stable States in the Middle East.

First things should come first and a treaty between them should be the Government's object as far as possible, he said.

Mr. Younger commented that the British Government wished to see an agreement between Israel and all the neighbouring States.

Major Edward Legge-Bourke, Conservative, said that speaking strictly for himself he considered the de jure recognition of Israel to be the most hideous betrayal of all those men who fought in Palestine.

Arab, Jewish reaction

In Cairo, the Arab League today called an extraordinary session of its Political Committee to decide on its future course of action in view of Britain's application of the treaty with Jordan to annexed areas.

Reuter and Associated Press.

Abdullah's move backed in Cairo

Cairo, April 27. The veteran statesman, Ismail Sidky Pasha, today became the first Egyptian openly to support King Abdullah's act incorporating East Palestine into the Kingdom of Jordan, when he said here: "I believe, the move is in accordance with the wishes of the East Palestine people."

He added: "These people took part in the recent elections, and now share in the conduct of affairs in an enlarged Jordan State."

Sidky Pasha also favoured a Jordan-Syria-Iraq union.

"The presence of a strong Arab country in the North and another (Egypt) in the South will deter Israel from further expansion," he declared.

Asked whether Jordan sought a preliminary peace with Israel, Sidky Pasha said: "Peace with Israel would contribute towards political stability in the Middle East, and as such should be welcomed."—Reuter.

THE GREAT DEFLECTION

The Mayor of Shanghai, General Chen Yi, titillated the imagination of his unhappy audience in Shanghai with a more than merely striking picture of conditions in that city. Commodity prices, he said, were stable, currency was steady, there were abundant food supplies, and coal stocks were flowing in. All quite true. The brakes were applied well down the steep slope and they are holding. Now all is quiet, and restful, and the only sound is the muttering of many tongues.

Stability has come, at least for the present, and with it stagnation. The Government has all the food and raw materials and most of the goods. Not even the Japanese in their most efficient moments during the occupation accomplished half so much. And all the money is in the State banks. From a mild inflation that was face-wounding, but that never remotely approached that of the Nationalists, China has passed to a ruthless deflation which threatens to stop the entire economic machine. All the fevers have gone; the patient lies prostrate.

From the management of paper or commodity currency the Government has moved to management of the entire economy. Motives far more honest than those of the Nationalists, who printed a myriad of worthless banknotes, lie behind the swift transformation of economic policy, whose pace has left the Soviet tempo of the first decade far behind. But different motives and different methods may not yield different results. In any case, the people's money, the people's grain, and the people's goods have passed into the possession of the People's State.

As General Chen Yi put it, the "centralisation" of finance has given the Peking Government immense power to regulate the country. This was so because the Communist policy had concentrated vast sums of money and what the Mayor called "decisive supplies" in the hands of the State. Punitive taxes and levies have bereft private capital and private enterprise of all cash, and forced them to mortgage their credit. They have no means to carry on.

Yet the Mayor urged them to be up and doing. The industrialists and merchants, he said, should overcome all difficulties and carry on with their business. A wide market would be open to them, he said, "when the liberation of the whole country is complete"—a delicate hint that all their hardships were solely due to the needs of the expedition against Taiwan. Unemployment and stoppage of industry were difficulties of a temporary nature and would be overcome.

The crisis of confidence in the currency has been overcome. The crisis of confidence in the Government has begun. Under the first inducement and the people carried on the trials of confidence in the currency has been overcome. The crisis of confidence in the people from inflation. Its next job is to liberate them from debtors and it's even more urgent.

PIRACY IN THE BALTIK

By Ralph Hewins

The Baltic now is the centre of a U.S.-Russian incident, if not an easy. From being one of the world's most peaceful seas (even in two World Wars) it has become one of the most disturbed.

Swedish, Danish and German fishermen and navigators of other small craft take their lives (or at least their safety), their craft, and their equipment, in their waters whenever they approach the Southern shores of the Baltic, controlled by the Russians and Poles.

Norway is providing moral bucking, and Iceland is also behind the protest made. Although neither is a Baltic fishing power, both have been having trouble with Russia over fishing elsewhere.

During March alone, armed Soviet marines operating from minesweepers have seized 16 Danish, four Swedish and four German fishing boats after firing warning shots over the bows, and driven the crews below at the point of the pistol.

These acts of piracy have occurred as far as 35 miles out to sea, although the traditional extent of the Baltic territorial waters is three to four miles, and the Russians themselves have never yet claimed more than 12 miles (the agreed length in Far Eastern water).

The crews have been imprisoned and fed only on black bread and soured butter for weeks at a time, kept out of communication with their consular officials, and with their wives and families at home; and deprived of their tackle, often worth £500 a boat, not to mention being prevented from marketing their catches, which would also amount to about £500 a boat.

Expensive

On purely financial grounds the Swedish and Danish Governments are bound to take action. The money involved runs into hundreds of thousands of pounds.

What makes the situation worse is that this is not a new terror. Between the end of the war and last April, five Swedish vessels had already disappeared completely in mysterious circumstances off the Polish coast. Sixteen Danish boats were also rounded up by the Russian Baltic Fleet off Bornholm Island, in Christmas, 1948.

Those events led to independent Swedish and Danish protests to Moscow, seeking mainly to come to an agreement about the extent of Baltic territorial waters.

Now, a year later, those Notes have been totally ignored by the Soviet Government, although the Swedish Ambassador in Moscow has repeatedly reminded the Kremlin of the matter.

feverishly and speculatively may be, but still actively. There were more zeros to figure out, but a $100,000 note was not much more of a load than a ten dollar bill. There was even a bit of ironical humour in handling bundles of notes running into millions. One may not have felt "like a million dollars," but at least like a gold dollar.

From the extreme of Nationalist inflation the new regime has moved to the extreme of State control. The State is now all-powerful and all-possessing. It likewise assumes entire responsibility for what may befall—success that would make General Chen Yi's disclaimer of a miracle a marvel of modesty; or failure that would make the Co-prosperity Era look like the paradise it was supposed to be. The diffident little lady, announced by Peking Radio on Thursday night that in 10 months the situation in Shanghai had been "transformed!" That is also quite true, and now that the bombing background has changed, the transformation is to be seen in more direct relation to State policy, though the blockade still exercises its pernicious influence.

The change has come, said General Chen Yi, because the Central People's Government did not rely on printing banknotes to pay its way. It preferred genuine revenue, the reorganisation of the tax system, the centralisation of finance, and the "floating" of Victory Bonds. With the celebrated Tobias Hobson would say of this we do not know. The Nationalist State churned out notes without limit. Those who were smart turned them into goods as fast as their phones could carry their orders. But the People's State has the goods and the money. Living was never so cheap since the war, said a recent arrival from Shanghai, but there is no money to live. The People's State has liberated the people from inflation. Its next job is to liberate them from debtors and it's even more urgent.

The trials of confidence in the currency has been overcome. The crisis of confidence in the people from inflation. Its next job is to liberate them from debtors and it's even more urgent.

The ship was placed under the command of a mechanician started the engine, and we cruised along at the same speed and steadily over the model. At the mid-point when was finished for the deep port of the Atlantic Ocean, the ship's facilities strongly influenced design.

The remaining anchor was re-aimed in the "profile."

Showing to independent public opinion, the Swedish Government, which tries to avoid trouble with Russia as far as possible, has completed a cross-examination of two returned Swedish crews, and heard the views of the leaders of the Swedish fishing industry.

"On the basis of these explorations the Swedish-Danish Note to Moscow (or the United Nations, if necessary) will be issued."

This ostensibly ideal storm has bearing on the British fishing industry. Recent reports say that the USSR has begun to encroach on the world fishing industry in a major way, and the impact of this drive is already being felt. In waters traditionally fished by British trawlers.

Already Britain has lost vessels on Soviet mines. Already the British Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries is permanently guessing about Soviet intentions.

Police, i.e., Soviet interlocutors complexed concerning the superiority of the British, Swedes, and Norwegians in naval and mercantile shipping.

"Genuine economics, namely a desire to get control of as much fishing water as possible, best superior Western fishing techniques should produce permanent reduction of shoals and lead to an encroachment on waters which the Russians have earmarked for their own supplies."

4. Nerve warfare aimed at keeping the Swedes, Norwegians and Danes permanently guessing about Soviet intentions.

5. Policing, i.e., damming the thousands-strong stream of refugees from Poland, the Baltic States and the Eastern Zone of Germany.

6. Anti-spying; the prevention of infiltration of Western agents behind the Iron Curtain aboard fishing and other vessels.

deal with this explosive situation.

What explains Soviet aggression? British, Norwegian, Swedish and Danish experts suggest the following:

1. Security, more precisely, a determination to keep prying eyes from war installations along the Baltic and Arctic coasts.

2. Prestige, i.e., Soviet interlocutors complexed concerning the superiority of the British, Swedes, and Norwegians in naval and mercantile shipping.

3. Shirley Temple appointed mayor of California town.

This must be a mayor's nest.

4. The Commoner in Australia is slowly coming to the conclusion that Mr. Menzies doesn't like them. And after all the trouble they have taken to win fronts and influence people.

5. Thakin Nu is to attend a service in London in honour of the Commonwealth soldiers of the Burma campaign.

Well, till Errol Flynn hears about this.

6. New York lift operators go on strike.

This will make even the most blasphemous start.

Airmen have been sent to the London docks.

Leaving the strikers up in the air.

7. Incidentally, one must grant the welfare state one more example of achievement—the strikers continue collecting their guaranteed weekly wage, whether they are idle from lack of work or simply through Red fever. At least we know they will not suffer.

In Whitehall Admiralty planners are in close contact with the latest developments, and an Admiralty officer, Captain A. R. Peader, Deputy Director of Plans, is going out to join the Australian Naval Board.

The Australian Parliament has voted £20,000,000 to be spent on a five-year defence plan. Work on the British Commonwealth rocket range at Woomera in South Australia is going ahead.

The Royal Australian Navy is now carrying out exercises with the New Zealand Navy, and several British submarine are operating with the R.A.N.

The three Services are recruiting fast and the Navy offers a special inducement to British naval men—a six-year engagement which is most attractive to the man who would like to settle in Australia afterwards.

The Royal Australian Air Force has also been recruiting in Britain and the Army, aiming at a 10,000 personnel force, also hopes to attract trained soldiers from the Mother Country.

Australia has no compulsory national service as yet, but a scheme for training 20,000 National Servicemen between the ages of 18 and 21 is under review.

EMPIRE STATESMEN TO DISCUSS PEACE TREATY FOR EAST

London, April 27.

Arrangements for the organisation of the Commonwealth Working Party on the Far Eastern peace treaty, which opens in London on May 1, are now complete.

The meeting, which is expected to last between two and three weeks, will be held in the Cabinet offices. Either the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Ernest Bevin, or the Secretary for Commonwealth Relations, Mr. Patrick Gordon-Walker, is expected to preside over the opening session. This will be attended by the High Commissioners of Commonwealth coun-

ALARMING REPORT ON JAPAN

London, April 27.

The Japanese Government intends to expel all foreign interests and restore old totalitarianism in Japan, "The Times" reported from Tokyo today.

Headlined "Resurgence of Japan," the report said that everywhere in Japan there is evidence of keenness to play a leading part in international affairs. "Above all there is growing determination to compete completely unfettered in international markets and recapture a large portion of world markets," the report said.

In great commercial centres like Tokyo and Osaka, resentment against foreigners, particularly traders, is noticeable.

It said, "Since the Allied Headquarters restored the right of customs inspection there have been instances in which Japanese inspectors search highly respected members of the foreign community."

The Japanese police are also planning to impede the activities of foreigners once the occupation of Japan has ended. It said, "They have already begun to pry into the private lives of foreigners with a view to re-establishing their dossier."

The report warned that despite the difficulties confronting Japan, many British markets will be Japanese markets before long.

It said, "The manager of a textile plant made it clear that the revival of the Japanese textile industry was just beginning. Industrialists and politicians here frequently speak of surprises that are in store for Lancashire."

At present business is restrained by regulations relating to labour conditions but it is not expected that these will long survive the end of occupation. It said, "It can hardly be doubted that the ultimate aim of the Government is to put an end to foreign activities in Japan in preparation to restoring old totalitarianism."—United Press.

GRAZIANI'S FATE KNOWN TODAY

Rome, April 24.

Former Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, the last of the leading figures of Mussolini's Fascist Italy, gazed complacently through his monocle today as his Counsel passionately wound up his defense in his eight-months old trial.

He is charged with collaborating with the Germans and illegally commanding Mussolini's "lost garrison" Fascist Army in Northern Italy.

The Defence argued that the Badoglio Government, which superseded Mussolini in Rome, was a revolutionary one which could only be juridically invalidated by success.

Decrees issued by the Badoglio Government, on which the trial is based, are therefore without judicial value, the Defence claimed.

The Defence will close its case tomorrow.

Special police measures will be taken on Saturday, when sentence is expected to be pronounced.—Reuter.

Dock Board's warning to strikers

London, April 27.

The London Dock Board tonight warned 14,422 unofficial strikers that unless they return to work on Monday they will lose the existing right to a guaranteed minimum wage of £4.8s. weekly.

The Board, whose decision is understood to have the Labour Government's approval, controls all London docks workers.

It is a joint body representing both employers and trade unions and charged with administering the dock labour scheme in the interests of all.

Over 6,000 servicemen are already moving cargoes and this number will increase to a total of 22,000 on Saturday, May 6.

The strike began last week over three men expelled from the union for their part in last summer's unofficial dock strike in support of the Canadian seamen's dispute.—Reuter.

Chen Yi's picture of Shanghai

San Francisco, April 27.

Commodity prices in Shanghai are stable, the currency is steady, there are abundant supplies of food and coal stocks are flowing in from the interior.

These were some of the things which Shanghai's Mayor, Mr. Chen Yi, told a meeting in the North China city recently, according to Peking Radio tonight.

A peace treaty for Japan this time might be disastrous for United States interests in the Far East, Lieutenant-General Robert L. Eichelberger, former Commander of the United States Eighth Army in Japan, said in a lecture in New York today.

All troops in Japan are now under General Douglas MacArthur but a peace treaty might give the Russians a chance to place troops in the country, he pointed out.

General Eichelberger retired from the Army in August, 1948.—Reuter.

It is recalled that in 1947, under an allocation of 30 per cent of this surplus, made by a decision of General Douglas MacArthur, Britain received five per cent on behalf of Malaya and Burma, amounting to a value of 25,500,000 yen. She retained no part of this for herself.

A peace treaty for Japan this time might be disastrous for United States interests in the Far East, Lieutenant-General Robert L. Eichelberger, former Commander of the United States Eighth Army in Japan, said in a lecture in New York today.

He claimed that the centralisation of finance had given the Peking Government immense power to rule the country.

This was so because this step concentrated vast sums of money and decisive supplies in the hands of the State.

The Mayor urged Shanghai industrialists and merchants to overcome all difficulties and to carry on with their business.

He forecast that a wide market would open up for them when the liberation of the whole country is complete.

He said that Shanghai is experiencing difficulties such as unemployment and the suspension of work in some factories, but these, he maintained, are difficulties of a temporary nature and would be overcome.—Reuter.

Mr. Hoover said an "Alcoholics anonymous" society with an exclusively non-Communist membership. The West should awaken to the fact that this is not one world.

"The one world idea seems to be lost in the secret files," he said.

In an address before the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the former President said the world needs mobilisation of nations which believe in God to fight the Red tide of agnosticism. It needs moral mobilisation against a policed State and Hitlerian slavery.

Mr. Hoover said: "This is specifically not a proposed extension of a military alliance or any colour of it. It is a proposal based solely upon moral, spiritual and defence foundations. It is a proposal to redeem the concept of United Nations to the high purpose for which it was created. It is a proposal for moral and spiritual co-operation of God-fearing free nations."—United Press.

Mr. Alfred Barnes, Transport Minister has announced this increase to help meet railway losses which on present charges would amount to about £100,000,000 by the middle of 1952.

He said freight charges were 80 per cent more than the 1936 figure—an increase substantially lower than in other basic industries. Railway costs had gone up by 125 per cent above the pre-war level.

Mr. Churchill complained that this was another form of tax on the people.

He pressed for an early debate and indicated that the Opposition would force the matter to a vote.—Reuter.

Poland has given notice that it is leaving the 63-nation United Nations Food and Agricultural Organisation.

Poland withdrew last month from the International Bank and International Monetary Fund and from United Nations agencies, complaining that they were under American domination.

The withdrawal from FAO will not be effective for a year, the recognised period of notice.—Reuter.

BRITAIN WILL DESTROY REDS IN MALAYA

Rangoon, April 27.

The offensive against Communists who wish to turn Malaya into a "slavish satellite State of Russia" will be maintained until they are utterly destroyed, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, British Commissioner-General for South East Asia, said here today.

He told the Burmese Journalists' Association that he had conveyed the British Government's congratulations to the Burmese Prime Minister, Thakin Nu and his colleagues on the recent progress of their military campaign against insurgent forces.

He hoped that the Burma Government's magnanimous policy of amnesty and conciliation towards the insurgent elements might soon restore to Burma the blessing of democratic peace and the work of rehabilitation and development could proceed among them unhampered.

Mr. MacDonald said that Burma's rice exports could fully keep up to expectations in 1949 in spite of every difficulty and vital quantities might be shipped in 1950 to feed surrounding populations.

Mr. Charles Swart, Minister of Justice, announced in Capetown that big anti-Government demonstrations, said to have been organised by Communists, were planned in the Witwatersrand area of Transvaal, where Pretoria and Johannesburg lie, for May 1.

Earlier this week, Colonel J. P. Coetzee, Deputy Commissioner of Police in the Witwatersrand, threatened to meet force by force if necessary on Monday.

A special police riot squad armed with Sten and Tommy guns is available and light tanks, armoured cars and troop carriers have been assembled at strategic points in the area.

Troops are ready to help if needed, he added.

Mr. Swart told the House of Assembly he would invoke the Riotous Assemblies Act to prevent May Day disturbances. He said the Communist Party was behind the whole planned demonstration.

Mr. G. J. Sutter, Chief Whip for General Jan Smuts, the Opposition United Party leader, said it appeared that the Minister of Justice had information that whitewashed life steps that had been taken in the Witwatersrand.

"We think prevention is better than cure and we have no disagreement with the action the Government has taken," he added.—Reuter.

DUTCH SWING TO THE RIGHT

Amsterdam, April 27.

Holland swung slightly to the right and the Communists lost almost half their seats in the provincial legislatures, in Wednesday's elections.

Mr. MacDonald considered the forthcoming Commonwealth Conference at Sydney as extremely important in regard to South East Asian affairs because it would result in the establishment of political co-operation of all nations which were interested in maintaining the democratic cause in South East Asia.

Middle-road parties, including the Liberal Foreign Minister, Dirk Stikker's Party for Freedom and Democracy, strengthened their position and the Communists, although they posed as the party of the poor and broad, lost 31 of the 58 seats they had occupied in Holland's 11 provincial councils since 1946.

Nearly 5,000,000 Dutch men and women voted, although temperatures were at freezing point, and rain and sleet fell in many sections. Dutch men and women older than 23 are compelled by law to vote.—United Press.

MOTORING NEWS AND VIEWS

Road accidents in Britain

During 1949, 176,779 persons were killed or injured in 146,736 road accidents in Great Britain. This was the highest total of road casualties for any year since the war, and was 23,382, or 15 per cent, more than for 1948.

The deaths numbered 4,773, an increase of 260 compared with the previous year, though less than for any other year since the war. The seriously injured totalled 43,410, an increase of 10,434 over the 1948 figure.

In 1948 the road accident position improved, but this was not maintained in 1949, when nearly 300,000 additional vehicles were licensed and more petrol was available. The best feature of the 1949 records is a reduction in the number of child deaths, the figure being 963.

Following are the figures of casualties for 1938 and recent years:

	Deaths	Injured	Injured
1938	5,649	50,015	176,878
1945	6,156	32,537	100,566
1946	5,082	35,088	120,896

Road casualties during December totalled 16,513, including 537 killed and 4,200 seriously injured. Compared with December, 1948, there was an increase of 399 in the total casualties and of 587 in the seriously injured, the latter being the highest for December since 1941.

As in 1948, December was the worst month of the year for road deaths, although the total of 537 was 10 less than that for the corresponding month of 1948. Child deaths numbered 56, and were 14 fewer than in December, 1948.

December 23 and Christmas Eve took a heavy toll on the roads, with 1,570 casualties, including 36 killed and 421 seriously injured.

Four pedestrian crossings in London are being used for experiments to find out whether the lighting of crossings leads to improved behaviour on the part of both the pedestrians and motorists.

At all four sites, the surface of the crossings has been marked with the black and white "zebra" stripes, now being developed as a result of experimental work at the Road Research Laboratory.

Floodlit

At two of the sites the crossings have been specially floodlit. One of these is at the junction of City Road and Morland Street, Finchley, and the other is at the junction of Holloway Road and Fairbridge Road, Islington.

At the other two sites the orange globes have been lighted internally with 60-watt lamps; a window of clear glass in the globe is designed to throw some of the light down onto the crossings.

New record for Austin

New York, April 27.—A standard Austin car established 18 new records in the first 370 miles of a 24-hour test at Suffolk County Airport track, 100 miles from New York, today.

With six hours elapsed, the Austin averaged between 66 and 67 miles per hour.

Dave Gandy, the official American Automobile Association representative, announced this adding that there are no existing American stock car records for this class of car, an A-40 Austin.

The car began a 24-hour speed run at 6:20 a.m. with Alan Hess driving, taking turns with Colonel Goldie Gardner.

The AAA, which is officially timing the test, said that both the drivers were holding up well and making excellent time considering the stiff wind blowing across the eight-cornered track, which is 200 yards short of three miles.

After the first two hours, Hess drove into the pits and while the car was being refuelled and having a tire changed, Hess said that the Austin sometimes exceeded 75 mph on the straight. The tyres were wearing badly, he said then, and two were changed in the first few hours.—Associated Press.

New Italian cars

The latest F.I.A.T. Type 101 displays great diversity in the characteristics of the engines in the two experimental models which are at the moment being studied.

One has a very short stroke, almost less than the bore, while the other is completely the opposite, with a stroke of 115 mm. for a bore of 62 mm.

Before May 4, when the Turin Show opens, the company will decide which version will be proceeded with. In both cases the capacity of the engine is about 1,400 c.c. with four cylinders with valves in the head-of-class type.

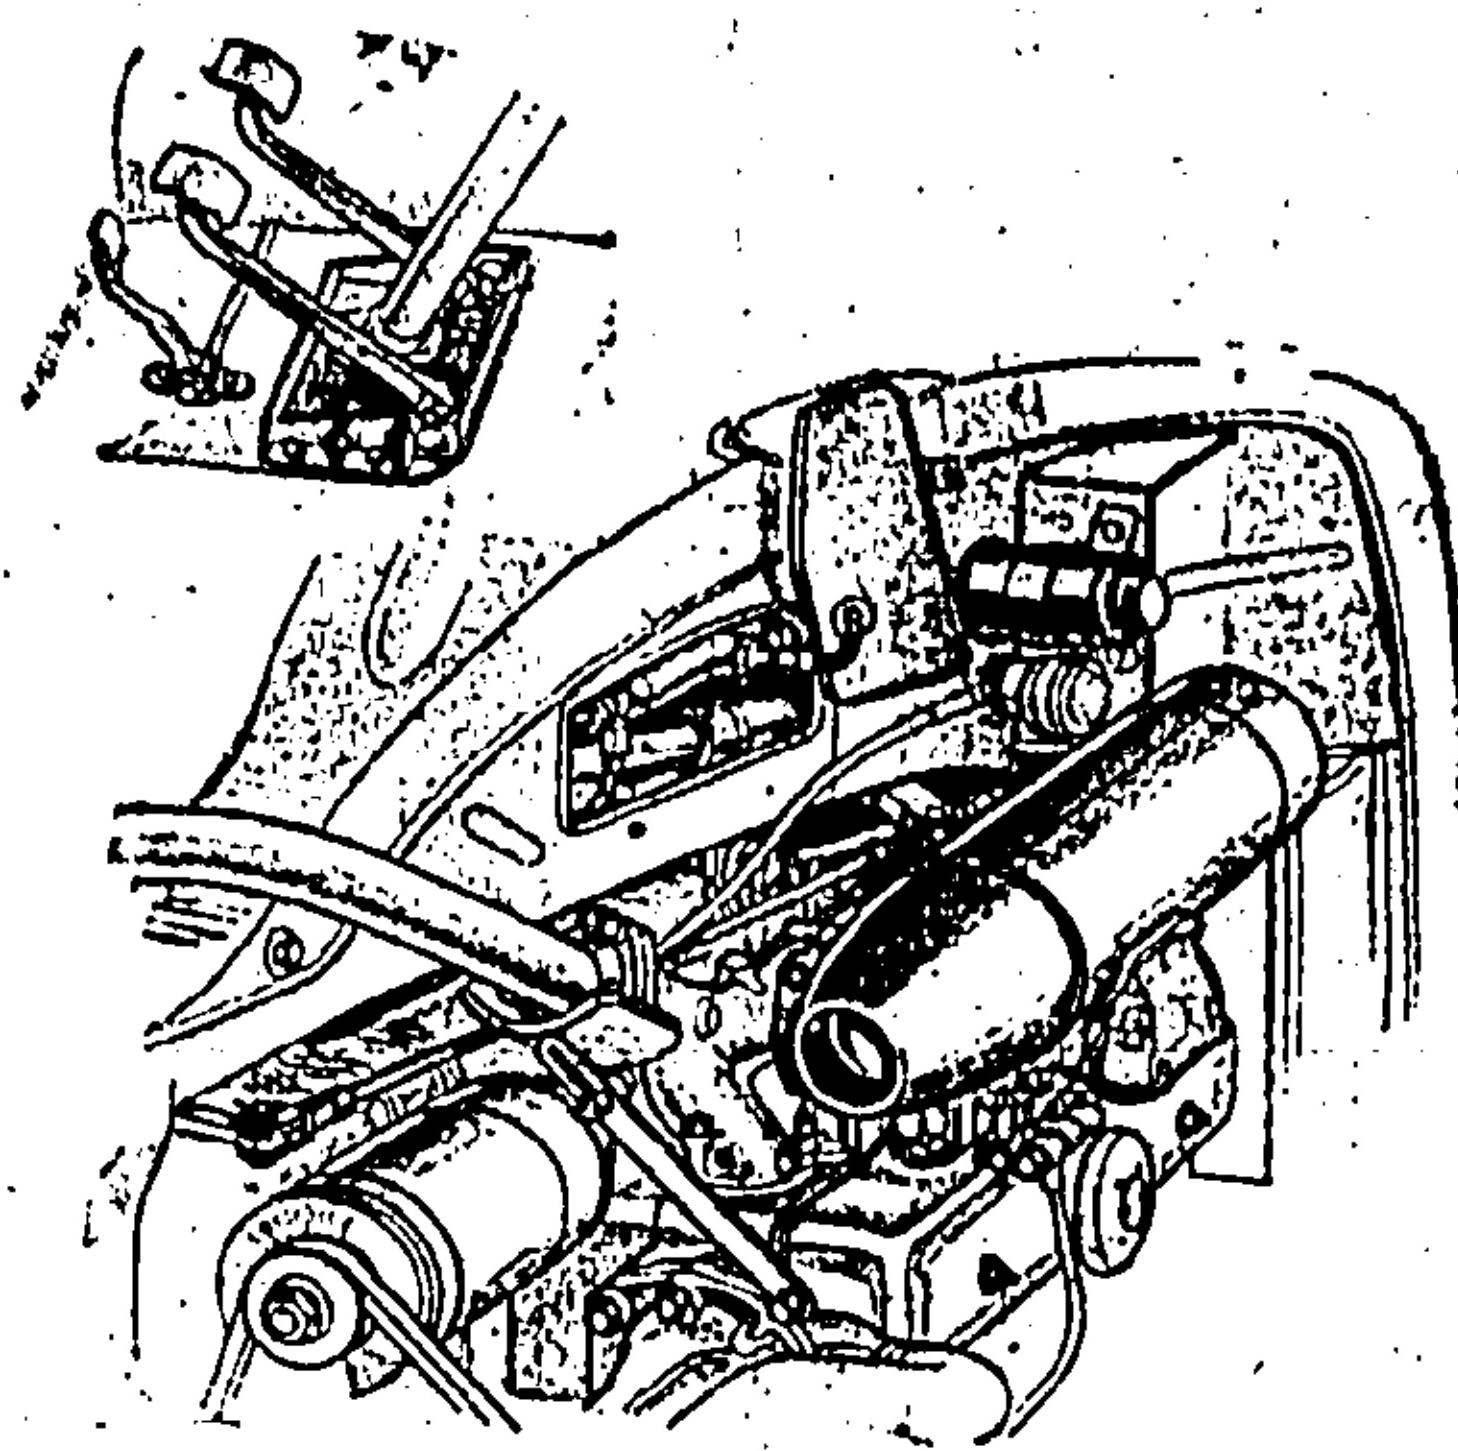

Both engines develop circa 50 h.p., which gives the car the maximum speed of about 70 m.p.h., at which speed it maintains a large margin of stability.

The gear-change lever will be on the steering column and all gear ratios are synchronised and silent. The chassis is made of welded tubes, with independent suspension and the rear springing is with torsion bars. The complete weight is 18.7 cwt. and the fuel consumption should be about 25 m.p.g. Production will continue with both the Type 500 C and the 1100 E.

Another novelty is the new Lancia "Aurelia", which is a completely redesigned car and has a six-cylinder engine on the classic Lancia line of narrow-angle Vee with a capacity of 1,700 c.c. and an output of 65 h.p.

One must not forget the new Alfa Romeo, which comes from the energetic hands of engineer Ascari.

The first new Alfa is a four-cylinder of 76 by 105 mm. giving a cubic capacity of 2,000 c.c. with a power of 75 b.h.p. The cylinder heads have been modified in the Alfa Romeo style.

Latest modifications to the Citroen Light Fifteen as assembled in Britain include longer pedal arms with a higher pivot point giving a more normal pedal travel. The brake cylinder is moved to a more accessible position inside the main structure and the clutch is now operated by rod instead of cable. The new Vokes air cleaner and silencer is shown.

British Citroens

The Citroen Light Fifteen, assembled at the British factory at Slough, has undergone no fundamental change in mechanical specification or external appearance since the design left the drawing board 17 years ago, yet the car is still eagerly bought by discerning drivers in many different countries.

Last year it has proved capable of making best performance in the Alpine Trial and winning the most important team prizes in the Alpine Trial and the International Evian Alpine Rally.

A different kind of tribute to its been possible to give a smoother and more progressive action.

The new brake pedal pivot has made it possible to move the Lockheed master cylinder to a more accessible position.

The clutch itself now has nine springs instead of six and the crown wheel has recently been stiffened.

The engine has a new Vokes air cleaner and silencer which gives better accessibility for minor engine adjustments and appreciably reduces noise from the carburettor intake. It has a felt filter element which is easily removable for cleaning.

The cars finished in Britain are, of course, equipped with a British 12-volt electrical system and the latest models have a cable rack screenwiper. A hardened drive dog is now used on the distributor.

The six-cylinder follows the same general layout as the Light Fifteen with an integral body-chassis structure, front-wheel drive, independent front suspension by torsion bars, and a dead trailing axle with torsion bar springing at the rear.

The 2.8-litre engine delivers 76 b.h.p., giving a high performance, and the car is finding a ready sale in countries all over the world.

Browder refutes accusations by Mr. McCarthy

Washington, April 27.

Earl Browder, deposed leader of the American Communists, swore under oath today that he knows of no Communists in the State Department.

He also branded as false, ex-Communist Louis Budenz, sworn testimony that he (Browder) had officially described Owen Lattimore as a Communist.

He then invited possible contempt action when he flatly refused to tell Senate investigators who, besides himself and a Chinese Red leader, was present at a meeting before the formation of the United Nations at San Francisco.

Mr. Browder testified before the Senate Foreign Relations sub-Committee investigating charges made by Senator Joseph McCarthy. He became defiant when Senator Bourke Hickenlooper asked who was present at a meeting with him and a Chinese Communist leader before the United Nations was formed.

"I do not remember, and if I did I would not give you that information," he said.

Senator Hickenlooper promptly noted for the record that all five members of the sub-Committee were present to hear Mr. Browder's testimony. This usually is the Congressional prelude to a contempt citation, which could possibly result in a jail sentence and fine.

When the witness said he could not be forced to answer, Senator Hickenlooper said, "That determination will be made by the Committee."

"Possibly," shrugged Mr. Browder. Then, raising his voice—for which he later apologized—he added: "I just wanted to make it clear that I am not going to be intimidated by any person."

Senator Hickenlooper then asked the witness whether the meeting in question was attended by the career diplomat, John Service, who has been accused by Senator McCarthy of being a poor security risk.

After saying he would not answer the question of who was or was not at the meeting, witness remarked: "Now we have the question in a general form. Ordinarily, I would have no hesitancy in answering such a question, except that experience has taught me that once I start answering such questions I am embarked on a fishing expedition."

Mr. Budenz issued a statement in New York saying it was no surprise to him that Browder had told investigators his (Budenz) testimony was false.

"Up to a few months ago Mr. Browder was an open, registered Soviet agent," he said. "I had no illusions but that he would be a reluctant witness—What I had hoped and still hope is that questioning will elicit from him the story of the Communist cell in the Institute of Pacific Relations."

China policy

Mr. Browder was questioned about Mr. Budenz' statement that Mr. Browder had praised Mr. Lattimore's contribution to selling the Party line on China in 1937—that the Chinese Communists were agrarian reformers. Mr. Browder said this was not so. At that time, he said, the Communists were maintaining that the Chinese Communists were leading the military struggle in China against Japan.

"Unity in China was the key word," he said, but added that

DON IDDON'S DIARY

The town of anxious dread

When I registered at the Carlton Hotel the elegant Englishman behind the desk said: "Are you going to write Washington up?" I said "Yes." That was before I had looked around!

I regret that I have to write Washington DOWN. If Hollywood is the city of dreadful anxiety, then Washington is the town of anxious dread.

The two places have much in common. Both are crammed with actors, strutters, headline-hunters, whidbys, phonies, social seekers, pressure groups, Pressmen, intriguers, five-per-centers, and whispering campaigners.

Sensation every day

Both are over-populated with pretty girls and uniformed waiters; overladen with drug-stores, sandwich counters, traffic signals, and traps for tourists, and overhung with too many parties.

You could swap all the characters in Washington for all the characters in Hollywood and no one would notice the difference.

There are the stars or Senators, before the cameras; the supporting players, or Congressmen, backstage; the Klieg lights, the fans, the reporters, and the gossip-writers.

And there is a sensation every day. Currently the Kansas City shootings are making everyone breathless.

Last week the featured attraction was "Spies in the State Department." Senator Joseph McCarthy got top billing. This week the box-office smash-hit is "These Guns for Hire."

There is no particular star in this underworld feature—only a group of talented gangster types who try to be politicians.

I think this masterpiece about mobsters will have a long run.

Honest views

The honest and decent people here, who, of course, comprise about 99.9 per cent of the population, are getting rather tired of all the sensation.

Several have said to me: "The shootings in Kansas" City are a national scandal, but don't make it an international one." And "This Red hunt is rubbish—no one takes the charges seriously." Even the Daily News, not the most sensitive or scrupulous newspaper, says editorially:

The reason, of course, why residents of Washington, the capital

"What with our State Department accused of harbouring Communists and queers, and the Truman crowd now bespattered with Blingio's and Gorgo's gore, so to speak, the United States, and particularly, the politicians in power at Washington, must look just dandy to the rest of the world."

Well, they said it, I didn't.

What is happening is that the enemies of the President and of the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, are doing everything to smear the present Administration.

Clean-up needed

There is no doubt that Washington needs a clean-up. The White House is being renovated, and Blair House, another official residence, is being repainted, but the spring-cleaning should be extended.

On the surface the capital looks resplendent. There are the spacious avenues, the magnificent Government buildings, the glossy hotels—but the opulence and beauty are skin-deep.

Washington is a city of dreadful slums. The Negro lives in squalor within sight of the Capitol dome. And Washington has the largest per capita Negro population of any city in the United States. Thirty per cent of this town of 1,500,000 population are coloured.

They are condemned to filthy shacks. They are effectively segregated, kept out, and kept down.

No one, not even the global planners, knows what to do about them. The subject is not welcomed as a teacup or cocktail party topic.

When in the National Press Club—perhaps the best newspapermen's club in the world—I asked John O'Donnell, the ferocious and sometimes Anglophobic columnist of the New York Daily News, why no one in Washington had the right to vote, he changed the subject to Sir Basil Brooke and the partition of Ireland.

At the moment we are being given soothing syrup. A few days ago we were being told who should be our War Minister, when and why the partition of Ireland should end, what to do with Marshall Plan money if we got it and how to behave.

It was asked: Who did we think we were—a Sovereign State, an Independent Nation, an Ally, or a neutral woman?

These police questions have ended. Our friends now realize they went too far.

If we like we can choose our own Ministers as long as we don't tell them anything; we can postpone the Irish decision as long as we finally follow Dublin's advice—and also we can drink tea, though not too many cups.

This is progress. I tell you the British are doing well here.

Heard about the capital: Among the things most often opened by mistake in Washington is the mouth.

The only place where Truman and Stalin would ever meet would be Last Resort.

There is no show news this week as there are no shows in Washington.

Footnote: The only office most politicians here seem interested in is the box-office.

Some quarters here said it has long been anticipated that Chiang intended in some way to throw down the gauntlet to Russia in order to provoke World War III as the best means of restoring his Nationalist regime to power.

Those quarters even suggested that Chiang might declare war on Russia if the United States showed signs of recognizing Mao Tse-tung's Communist Government. By creating a situation wherein he could accuse Russia of active intervention, he could make a declaration of war, and thereby hope to force the United States to take sides.—United Press.

of world democracy, the hope and inspiration of the free world, have no vote in because there are "too many Negroes here." The coloured vote might control the city.

So no one votes—not the taxpayers, not the political pundits who tell everyone else how to vote, not a householder, ever goes near a ballot-box.

District Commissioners run the city, and not too well.

The anomalies of the city have a lighter side. There are so many Government girl workers that the town teams with pretty women, outnumbering the men by two to one.

And, in order to keep drinking down, there are no stand-up bars in the city (except in the National Press Club). Only cocktail lounges are allowed.

The result has been that four times as much alcohol is consumed in Washington as in the average American city.

Another result has been the non-stop cocktail party which flourishes here from dusk until dawn. Hostesses fight like tigresses to catch social lions.

All this lubrication is probably responsible for the extraordinary whispering campaigns which sweep the city regularly. Everyone has his ear cocked in the capital.

Everyone is on the inside, owns a personal pipeline, knows where the body is buried. The gossip is gargantuan.

Whispers are prompted by ambition, rivalry, and sometimes by hatred. They are often highly personalised.

All Government departments here use the whisper and use it regularly. If you are deaf, you do not thrive in Washington. The British, being quick-eared and tight-lipped usually get along well.

NATIONALISM MORE ACTIVE IN GERMANY

Nationalist groups in West Germany have become more active since military government ended last Autumn, the U.S. High Commissioner, John McCloy, informed the State Department in a letter made public today. In the letter, dated March 30 and addressed to the Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, and the Marshall Plan administrator, Paul Hoffman, with a copy to President Harry Truman, Mr. McCloy said although Nationalism is a force which must be increasingly reckoned with, it is no immediate major threat.

Japan wants trade with Red China

Tokyo, April 28. The Japanese House of Representatives today unanimously approved a resolution appealing for the exchange of trade missions with Communist China and the resumption of direct trade with continental China.

The resolution said these measures constituted an "important problem" to Japan "which confronts the prospect of decreasing United States aid." It said they were basic measures necessary to solve Japan's domestic business recession.

It pointed out that trade with Asia composed 65 per cent of Japan's total normal, pre-war trade volume and more than half of this was dominated by trade with China.

Britain, India, Sweden, Russia and other countries have already recognised the new China Government and "United States recognition through recognition of the United Nations is anticipated in the not too distant future," it was pointed out.

The resolution said trade promotion is absolutely an essential link in the life of Japan, and added: "From a purely economic viewpoint entirely dissociated from any problems of political issues or ideology, the Government should set up an aggressive policy toward exchanging trade missions with New China and resuming direct trade as early as possible and make every effort to realise these objectives."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

PAKISTAN STAND ON STERLING BALANCES

London, April 27.

Pakistan has asked Britain to consult her before she makes any commitments on the reported proposal that America should take over part of Britain's Sterling debts.

This was disclosed by Pakistan's Finance Minister, Mr. Ghulam Mohammed, in an interview here today.

Mr. Ghulam Mohammed said that his Government had made strong representations because her interests are deeply involved in any such solution.

While Pakistan had been curtailing her dollar expenditure and had more than fully implemented decisions of the London conference of Commonwealth Finance Ministers held for dollars was pressing and real.

"Pakistan needs more dollars in addition to the normal dollar releases for gains ahead with her programme of economic development," he added.

The Pakistan Finance Minister said that while appreciating fully the difficulties in which the British Government found itself in the matter of dollars, Pakistan had to give due weight to its own present requirements which were becoming more urgent on account of the march of disruptive forces in some neighbouring countries of South East Asia.

The Pakistan Government has received assurances at the highest level that no commitment shall be made affecting their interest without the fullest

POPE DEMANDS
FREE TRADE

Vatican City, April 27.

Pope Pius XII today called for freer world trade, and said that the bulk of it should be left to private enterprise, in line with Christian precepts.

Speaking at a special audience for delegates who attended the World Congress of Chambers of Commerce, which closed on Wednesday, the Pope said: "There are some countries in which the entrusting of all trade activity to the totalitarian hands of public authorities has become a system. Let us clearly state that this is a system which is in opposition with the Christian concept of social economy."

In this regard, the Pope, after telling the delegates that they were justified in demanding greater liberty of trade exchanges among nations, added: "Commerce is fundamentally an activity of the individual, and it is this private activity which gives commerce its first impulse, and which illuminates the flame of interest in him who carries out this kind of business." —United Press.

A reserve

"Sterling balances form a reserve against paper currencies and are valuable foreign exchange assets accumulated at great sacrifice at a time of stress and strain in the last war," he said.

"It would be highly ungrateful apart from its economic and other consequences if anybody talked of scaling down these balances, blocking them or restringing their use except to the extent that is freely agreed mutually as in past years."

"An ill-informed or light-headed or selfish approach to this problem would have serious repercussions, not only in

Pakistan, but also in other

Dominions," he added.

The Minister further said, he was confident that Sir Stafford

Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is fully alive to these considerations and their importance.—Reuter.

CHINA MAIL

HONG KONG, SATURDAY, APRIL 29, 1950.

Fifth Race Meeting:

HELLZAPOPPIN EXPECTED TO WIN ST. GEORGE'S PLATE

(By "RAPIER")

The Fifth Race Meeting, under the auspices of the Hong Kong Jockey Club, to be held at the Valley this afternoon, consisted originally of 10 events, but owing to the large number of entries for the "Mount Nicholson Stakes," the Stewards have decided to run the race in two sections.

The Second section will be race No. 11 and run at 6.50 p.m. There will be no Cash Sweep on this race.

The most important race of the afternoon is the St. George's Plate, a handicap event for Australian Ponies of 1950.

The First saddling bell will be run at 1.30 p.m. and the first race will begin at 2.00 p.m. sharp.

The death of Mr. Percy Tester last Sunday has left a gap in the Stewards' department which will be hard to fill.

Mr. Tester, by his genial disposition and unassuming manner, had endeared himself to all who knew him and his death has evoked general expressions of sympathy.

On behalf of my readers, I extend to his relatives the fullest sympathy in their sad bereavement.

Race No. 1—Mount Gough Handicap (First Section): One Mile.

The first event on the programme is confined to Australian Ponies of previous seasons classified Class 4 Ponies to be ridden by riders who have not won 10 races anywhere at any time. No whips or spurs allowed.

From the entries, the following should be worth watching: Liberty Ship (Mr. Chong), Penforce (Mr. H. C. Woo), Hong Kong Slutze (Mr. Mok), Top Hat (Mr. Dau) and Happy Valley (Mr. Tseng).

I strongly fancy Liberty Ship, as the distance is well suited for this pony, although it failed to gain a place at the last meeting over six furlongs.

Main challenge should come from Penforce, which is quite at home over this distance and should not be ignored, as it is being quietly tipped.

Then there is Hong Kong Slutze to be considered, as it is quite capable of giving the above-mentioned ponies a good fight, while Top Hat, a fast improving pony, may probably extend them.

Happy Valley, on account of its fitness at the moment, might cause an upset.

Race No. 2—Talmoshan Stakes: From The 1½ Mile Post.

Looking over the entries for this sprint event, I don't think there is much doubt but that Robin Hood (Mr. Noot), will win, unless something out of the ordinary happens.

Hung Fa (Mr. Maitland), which has not as yet done anything of note so far, should have no difficulty in taking second place.

For the third position My Darling (Mr. Shieh) and Winged (Mr. T. L. Wong), should fight out the issue.

Race No. 3—Mount Davis Handicap: One Mile.

In this race Australian Ponies of 1950 classified Class 8, will fight out the issue and among the entries I expect one of the following to be the winner: True Love (Mr. Noot), Wonderful Mare (Mr. Holgate), Henrietta (Mr. Symonds), Goldfield (Mr. Renner) and Eleanor (Mr. Won Yun).

True Love, in view of its fourth placing in the Tai Kok Tsui Stakes over this distance at the Easter Race Meeting, has the best recommendation for a win here, but it will have to give of its best to beat Wonderful Mare, which ran unplaced in the Monktsui Handicap at the last meeting, when it was made hot favourite.

Henrietta should give the above two ponies a good fight for the first position.

Goldfield and Eleanor are good over this distance and I think either one of them could cause an upset.

Race No. 4—Mount Nicholson Handicap: Six Furlongs.

This sprint race, if confined to Australian Ponies of previous seasons classified Class 9.

For its win in the Shamshui Po Handicap over the mile at the last meeting for Novice Jockeys, Diamondfield (Mr. Cook), has been penalised by 18 lbs., but in view of that performance, I don't think the extra weight will ruin its chances of winning again.

There is Empress Gate (Mr. Need), which ran unplaced in this same race with Mr. Castro up, to be reckoned with, as the distance is just to its liking.

Amsterdam (Mr. Wong), is another pony to watch as it has regained some of its old form, judging from its fourth placing in the above race.
